

TO BE CARRIED OVER:

PARASOLS!

That is what they are for, but we are not going to do it. We will not carry our Parasols over, and in order to avoid it have put prices on them that will induce ladies to take them and carry them over themselves. The articles are fine, the prices are low, and they will stay together till they go together.

SUMMER UNDERWEAR—All our stock is marked low, to close it out.

Great bargains in Hosiery, Lace Mitts and Gloves.

L. S. AYRES & CO

NEW DENISON HOTEL

INDIANAPOLIS.

This elegant hotel has been newly fitted and furnished throughout, and is kept equal to the best in the country.

An Elegant Billiard Parlor.

The finest Barber Shop in the West.

The headquarters of the Republican State Central Committee, and of the leading Republicans of the State.

Rates, $2.50 to $4 per day.

E. B. MARTINDALE, GEO. A. TAYLOR & CO., Owners, Proprietors.

NEW BOOKS

ODDS AGAINST HER. By Margaret R. Macfarlane. 50c.

TWO MEN. By Elizabeth Stoddard. 50c.

ENGLISH CLASSICS—English History in Poetry and Prose. 36c.

For Sale by

THE BOWEN-MERRILL CO

TEMPORARY ENTRANCE

14 North Meridian

DECIDED BARGAINS

In our line of goods in order to reduce stock as much as possible.

WM. H. EARLE

(Established 1822.)

4 W. Washington St.

The New York Store

(Established 1853.)

SLIPPER SALE!

Thursday morning we will open and offer for sale

500 PAIRS

Ladies' Kid Slippers

—AT—

78c a Pair!

Every pair worth 100 cents.

PRICES ALWAYS IN PLAIN FIGURES.

PETTIS, BASSETT & CO

THE ALLEGED DYNAMITE PLOT.

A Chicagoan Who Says It Was Planned by Detectives to Enhance Their Reputations.

A gentleman from Chicago, a guest at the Bates House, said yesterday that the big sensation over the dynamite at Chicago was the result of a well-laid scheme of the Pinkerton Detective Company and an official high up in police circles, who were laboring by these means to enhance their own reputations. "I form my opinion wholly from the evidence in the case," said he. "Every one of the men who is offering the testimony against the Brotherhood members went into the railroad business and joined the Brotherhood just before the strike. No sooner were they in the organization, it appears, than they began to develop an abnormal appetite for blood." "I began to talk about dynamite plots. It ought to bring the Pinkerton company into everlasting disgrace, and the 'Q' company, too, if it was in any way connected with it. The whole business is a pure 'fak' and the people of Chicago are beginning to realize it. Another thing that looks very silly is all this talk about dynamite cartridges being placed on the 'Q' tracks. Several of these things have been found along the road, but none of them have done any damage as yet. It is claimed the intention of these was to frighten passengers and injure traffic. Well, now, it stands to reason, that any one who was bold enough to put any kind of a cartridge on the track, would not hesitate to put one on that would do some damage, and not these things that have been filled with sawdust. They were large enough, if filled with dynamite, to blow a hole through the Board of Trade."

A Profitable Line.

The street car company is just realizing that the completion of the street-car line to Woodruff Place is something that should have been done long ago. The Woodruff Place line was patronized twice as much yesterday afternoon and last night as any other line in the city, with the possible exception of College avenue. Although a number of extra cars were on the accommodations were entirely insufficient and a great many who desired to go to Woodruff Place did not do so, and they found they would have to stand up. Nevertheless, the public was carried out there, for a time, at the rate of 500 an hour. Ten new ones will be received from St. Louis to-day and distributed about on the various lines.

FURNITURE at Wm. L. Elder's.

THE PROMISES OF SUCCESS

Mr. De Young's Faith in Republican Majorities in New York and California.

Workingmen and Manufacturers Are Coming Over to the Side of Protection—A Busy Week Ahead for General Harrison.

M. H. De Young, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, spent yesterday in the city. He was on his way home from New York, where he attended the meeting of the national Republican committee. He is, if possible, more enthusiastic over the chances of Republican success than when here just after the adjournment of the Chicago convention. "I believed," he continued, in conversation with a reporter, "General Harrison could be elected when we nominated him, and now I have not the least doubt in the world about it. During the three weeks I was in the East, I studied the situation very carefully, and every feature of it seems favorable to the Republicans. If Indiana is carried by us, we will need but four votes, and we will have no trouble in securing them. The feeling in the East is very strong for protection, and our gains will surprise everyone. We will get almost the solid vote of the men of the factories in New Jersey and Connecticut. In one factory in New Jersey there are 800 men, 760 of whom voted for Cleveland four years ago. This year Harrison will get exactly 760 of the men, and Cleveland will have the number Blaine received. That is only a slight indication, but it shows what the feeling is among the laboring men. I talked with a great many manufacturers whose interests are large, while I was in New York, and they told me that at least seventy-five per cent. of the men who voted for Cleveland would support General Harrison. The laboring men have begun to recognize the danger there is in free trade, and will vote accordingly."

"What do you think of New York?" the reporter asked. "We do not need New York to elect Harrison, but we will carry it anyhow. I think it is a Republican State this year, and so do the leading men in the party in New York. Harrison will not lose any votes Blaine secured, and he will gain from many sources. First, the independent, who voted for Cleveland on account of a personal dislike to Blaine will all support Harrison; second, General Harrison will secure a much larger labor vote than Blaine did, and lastly, the Irish will largely support the Republican ticket. In New York city they have already organized a central committee of their own, and are establishing clubs in every Assembly district. Many of these clubs have already been organized, and hundreds of Irishmen who voted for Cleveland are becoming members. Their interest in protection. They are opposed to England's policy of free trade, and their hatred of the country that has oppressed them is such that they are going to do some of the most energetic work in the way of organizing in New York, and if the situation continues to grow more serious, I do not know whether they will do anything or not."

"You have no fear of the Pacific coast, have you?" "The coast States will give the largest Republican majority that have given in the history of the country. As far as the Chinese matter is concerned, we have already proven that Cleveland has a much worse record than General Harrison. The General has no record in the Pacific States. He has no record in the Pacific States, and any man who says they are Democrats and is stating what he can not substantiate. The Chinese question is settled, and the Democrats are only reviving it for the purpose of making the people of the Pacific States feel the real issue—the tariff."

"The coast is for protection, as a matter of course?" "Indeed it is, and it is to be made the issue with us this year. Under a law which the Democrats are seeking to make out of the Mills bill the Pacific coast States would lose several millions of dollars annually. Let us see what the law does for us. It places wool on the free list. Last year California had 4,460,000 pounds of wool. It is one of our greatest products, and if the Mills bill should become a law, the wool-growers would have to hunt some other business. You may imagine how the wool-producers feel about the bill, and judge how they will vote. The bill also places on the free list the fruit of the United States. California is the only State in the Union that produces that article in any great quantities, and the passage of the bill would injure the wool-growers to the extent of a million dollars yearly on that product alone. The bill formerly placed raisins, our greatest product, on the free list, and as it passed the House, the duty was reduced to one cent. Last year California shipped at least 1,000,000 boxes of raisins, and the reduction of the bill makes would completely wreck that industry."

A very large per cent. of the people of California have vineyards, and you easily see that the passage of any bill tending toward free trade must make grape-growers vote the Republican ticket. The bill also puts fresh fruits on the free list. Last year we shipped 35,000 tons of fresh fruit over the United States. Non-dutiable fruit means ruin for the fruit-growers. I might go on and enumerate articles in this connection for half an hour, but the examples I have given are enough, and show how California would be affected by the Democratic policy. The election of Harrison and Morton is not a matter of politics, but of business with us. The Democratic policy means financial ruin to California. When the vote of the State is counted in November there will be a much greater surprise than when Oregon's vote was announced. I think when the people begin to return from their summer vacation and become actively engaged in political work, there will be still better showing for the Republicans than now."

"You think the Republicans will gain in strength, then, as the election approaches?" "We undoubtedly will. I think if the election was held to-morrow we would carry every Northern State, and some Southern States. By November we can carry all the Northern States by a 10 per cent. better majority than now. Protection is the issue, and has made a thinking man begin to study it. He is bound to make up his mind to vote the Republican ticket." Mr. De Young left for home, by way of Chicago, last night.

Thinks Republicans Will Win.

R. C. Kerins, a prominent Republican of St. Louis, who was in the city a short time yesterday, says the Republicans of Missouri are enthusiastic over the nomination of General Harrison. "They look upon him as decidedly the strongest man that could have been nominated," he continued, "and are positive he will be elected. So far as I have been able to see I think the chances for Republican success are good. I believe the doubtful States of Indiana, New York, Connecticut and New Jersey will all go Republican on the issue of protection. They are all manufacturing States, and I can't persuade myself that the employees in the manufacturing factories are going to vote to put American labor at a disadvantage. It is in England, where we have but to ask ourselves one question: 'If the free-trade system is the best, why is it that the European laborers are coming to America as fast as they can accumulate money enough to bring them across the Atlantic?' I have never seen the Republicans all over the country, as active as early in the campaign, and if they keep up their present gait they cannot be beaten."

A Week of Receptions.

This is to be another week of receptions with General Harrison. There will be a visiting delegation every day, beginning to-morrow, when the Champaign county, Illinois Republicans will be here several hundred strong; Wednesday the John A. Logan Club, of Paris, Ill., will come; Thursday the miners of Clay and adjoining counties, numbering several hundred, likely, will visit him; Friday the Kosciusko county Republicans will be here, and Saturday the Republicans of Jennings county will pay their respects to him, several thousand people will visit the General during the four days. The crowds will be so great that the State central committee will not permit any handshaking. The receptions will likely take place at the Quaker Hotel. Yesterday morning the General and Mrs. Harrison attended church, and in the afternoon he divided his time between reading and receiving a few visitors. Of these only two were of note, M. H. De Young, of San Francisco, and R. C. Kerins, of St. Louis.

Meeting of Republican Clubs.

The Harrison Club will meet to-night, when further steps will be taken toward perfecting the organization according to the plan outlined last Monday night.

The Republicans of the Thirteenth ward met for organization to-night, evening in Bethel Church, on Vermont street.

THE ITALIAN CONTRACT LABORERS.

Some of Their Characteristics in Manner, Speech and Mode of Living.

The introduction of Italian contract labor into the city has caused quite a sensation. The lower class of that nationality to be formed at 118 East Market street. The house occupied by these people is but one story high, with a small attic and basement. It is a most dingy, forlorn-looking place. In this one house are forty-two Italians, all males. Here they eat, sleep and live, if such an existence may be fairly termed living. A glimpse inside the door is sufficient to convince one that what the Americans call poverty is far better than the filth here shown. Around the walls of the rooms are placed simple stables, such as carpenters use for planing lumber. Upon these rest wide, undressed, pine boards, and on them, probably, an old ragged, but once gaily-colored blanket, a coffee-sack, or some half destroyed mattress. Often the boards have no covering whatever. These are the beds of the inmates, and upon them, yesterday afternoon, as a Journal reporter passed their door, were stretched men of every age and contour of physique. Almost without an exception, they had pipes in their mouths—long, slender, pipes—from which the odor of the cheapest tobacco could be detected at some distance from the house. There is a remarkable similarity in the build of these men. They are small, stocky, and of a swarthy complexion, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress is peculiar in that they seem to have a great partiality for the red necktie. In fact, many of them wear red neckties in fantastic shapes of bright scarlet ribbon about their necks, the bow-knot being employed in any case. Their skill in toilet-making is evidently not high, and the constant coming and going of swarthy men, with eyes of a drooping, half-pathetic expression. Their faces seem to betoken a general good feeling, a frown seldom crossing the usually smiling countenance. Their manner of dress